The Office of Equity and Inclusion (OEI)
541-737-3972, 327 Snell Hall

OEI is responsible for coordinating the University's response to sexual harassment, unwanted sexual contact, stalking, and relationship violence. The office's responsibility is to respond to any reports of these matters quickly and fairly, and to correct the situation immediately. Examples of immediate assistance can include: academic/living accommodations, No Contact Orders, and resource referral. Reporting to OEI will not initiate a criminal investigation but may initiate an investigation under OSU's Student Conduct Code. You have the right to report to law enforcement in addition to reporting with OEI. The office can provide assistance to you if you choose to file a report with law enforcement.

Please be advised that as part of the University investigation and response to allegations involving students, our office may alert the Associate Vice Provost for Student Affairs and Dean of Student Life, in the Office of Student Life, as appropriate. If so, an administrator from that office may contact you to provide additional support, guidance, and/or follow up.

Know Your Rights

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits sex discrimination, which includes sexual violence, in educational programs and activities.

Here are some things you should know about your rights.*

- You have the right to report the incident to your school, have your school investigate what happened and have your complaint resolved promptly and equitably.

- You have the right to choose to report an incident of sexual violence to campus or local law enforcement. But a criminal investigation does not relieve your school of its duty under Title IX to respond promptly and effectively.

- Your school should ensure that you are aware of your Title IX rights and any available resources, such as victim advocacy, housing assistance, academic support, counseling, disability services, health and mental health services, and legal assistance.

- All students are protected by Title IX, regardless of whether they have a disability, are international or undocumented, and regardless of their sexual orientation and gender identity.

*Full information related to Title IX can be made available to you upon request from the Office of Equity and Inclusion or found through the U.S. Department of Education under the Office for Civil Rights website.
